Hear Tiffany ‘The Budgetnista’ Aliche’s Financial Tips in Ocean County Library Virtual Author Talk

TOMS RIVER – Tiffany “The Budgetnista” Aliche, whose personal financial setbacks and dramatic turnaround produced her best-selling Get Good with Money, will offer ways to develop a budgetary action plan during her appearance in the Ocean County Library Virtual Author Talk series, 2 PM Thursday, November 9.

Tiffany co-hosts the award-winning Brown Ambition podcast. She dispenses financial advice on The Real, in national dailies and periodicals, on CNBC, CNN, Today, and Good Morning America, and teaches money management online in her Live Richer Academy.

Once a successful teacher, Tiffany was thrown into debt when the recession claimed her job and questionable investment advice drained her bank account. Her steps to solvency became the basis of Get Good with Money, available at the Ocean County Library, and the newly-published Made Whole.

During the virtual talk Tiffany will introduce key points of the ten-step plan contained in Made Whole, a workbook that explains financial terms and offers common-sense ways to improve credit scores and budget for current and future needs.

Tiffany will present a “master class” in money management through budgeting basics, credit ratings, investments, estate planning, insurance matters, and cash flow control
